GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY

The Great Northern was a relatively small system of around 1,030 route miles, but its importance was enhanced insofar as the GNR main line formed part of the prestigious East Coast Main Line between London and Scotland. The company operated a number of suburban lines in the London area, together with an interesting network of cross country lines in Lincolnshire and the east Midlands. The following list of station views from the Lens of Sutton Collection includes locations on the Great Northern & Great Eastern Joint line (GN&GE) and Cheshire Lines system (CLC), although the Midland & Great Northern Joint line has been excluded.
