GREAT EASTERN RAILWAY STATIONS

With a network of around 1,100 route miles, the Great Eastern was one of the largest pre-Grouping companies. Although the GER system was more or less confined to East Anglia, GER services were able to reach the north of England via the Great Northern & Great Eastern Joint Line (GN&GE). The following list of station photographs from the Lens of Sutton Collection includes stations from the GN&GE route, together with connecting lines such as the Colne Valley & Halstead (CV&H) and Mid Suffolk (MSLR) lines.
